Board of Health hearing on tobacco sales to minors

By LIZZY HILL
News Correspondent

WILMINGTON — The Board of Health posted notice about a public hearing on Aug. 7 regarding section 8.10 of the Board of Health Regulations. This is the section regarding the sale of smoking and tobacco products at convenience stores in town.

According to the statement on their website, the hearing will be to propose that the regulation read: “8.24 Sales of flavored tobacco products are prohibited... 8.25 Limiting the number of tobacco sales permits.”

The full amendment to the regulation that will be covered at the hearing can be found online.

Board of Health Director Shelly Newhouse explained that Wilmington would be joining over 120 towns in the state that have this same regulation. She believes that it's important to prevent minors from getting these products, and this is a way to do exactly that.

“While youth cigarette smoking is at a historical low, vaping keeps going up and up,” she shared.

Vaping, via the Center on Addiction, is the inhaling and exhaling of aerosol or vapor produced by an e-cigarette.

These electronic cigarettes, vape pens, or personal vaporizers create a vapor from the e-liquid or e-juice, which is made with mainly nicotine, vegetable glycerin or propylene glycol, and other chemicals. The Center for Disease Control and Prevention's website explains that the vapor from these e-cigarettes contains cancer-causing chemicals. They remind viewers that nicotine and the other chemicals getting into a person's body and lungs can have harmful effects.

The main issue that the Board of Health Director has with young people having access to these tobacco products is that brain development isn't finished by the time they turn 21.

Newhouse is confident that the e-cigarette liquids used in vaping have harmful chemicals that affect brain development.

“We want to keep nicotine out of the hands of people under 21... we really don't know what the longterm effects are of vaping,” she continued.

On top of that, these are all products geared toward young people, between the advertising and all of the different flavors.

WCTV news and notes

Last week, WCTV had the privilege of covering the Moving Wall on the Town Common, which is a half-sized replica of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, DC. There were four nights of ceremonies to honor those who are on the wall, and those who served with them. WCTV was there for two of those evenings and you can now watch coverage on TV and online. The Opening Ceremony from Thursday night will air Friday night at 8 p.m., as well as Saturday and Sunday evenings at 7 p.m. Check out program schedule at wctv.org/public for more show times.

Our on-air coverage also includes an address from Sunday's "Welcome Home" Ceremony, which was given by a former POW and Silver Star Recipient. And, WCTV's Tom Pazyra assembled a great short video of the final event of the weekend, which was a dramatic portrayal of a Vietnam-era Marine and soldier walking along the wall. Check that out on our Facebook page or see it on TV. Speaking of Facebook, lots of you tuned in to our LIVE coverage on Thursday. We livestreamed the setup of the wall all morning long, and then also streamed the Opening Ceremony. This is all possible due to a piece of equipment we got earlier this year, which allows us to stream without being plugged in to a network. Look for more of this in the coming months. If you see a live feed that doesn't look 100 percent, it's likely because we're using this tool. Follow us on Facebook and download our app for notifications when LIVE Wilmington programs are about to begin. And finally, thanks to Wilmington's Veterans Agent Lou Cimaglia for getting this all organized for the community!

THE "NEW" ALTERNATIVE MINIMUM TAX

— PART I —

The 2017 Tax Act was signed into law on December 22, 2017. As part of the tax reform "simplification" process, there was a strong movement to eliminate the alternative minimum tax (AMT) for corporations and individuals. The 2017 Tax Act does eliminate the corporate AMT but not the individual AMT. While the individual AMT was retained, it will now affect a much more narrow class of taxpayers as a result of increasing the income exemption levels as follows:

The AMT exemption amount for joint filers is increased from $84,500 to $109,700 and for single filers from $54,300 to $70,300.

More importantly, the AMT phase out level for joint filers was increased from $160,900 to $1,000,000 and for single filers to $500,000 (the phase out level is that amount of alternative minimum taxable income (AMTI) above which the AMT exemption phases out by 25¢ for each dollar of AMTI).

Both figures will be indexed for inflation but such changes are scheduled for sunset at December 31, 2025 at which point the 2017 AMT exemptions thresholds (indexed) will then be applicable.

The effect of the AMT exemption changes is dramatic, as it is projected for 2018 that the number of taxpayers paying AMT will be reduced from over 5,000,000 to approximately 200,000.

History:

Wilmington led nation in hop production

By LARZ F. NEILSON

What brought about the building of stone walls in Wilmington? While there are a few reasons, one primary reason was to allow the cultivation of hops. Yes, hops, like in beer. About 200 years ago, Wilmington was the leading producer of hops in the country.

There were a few factors involved in this. Hop culture was centered in Massachusetts in colonial times. After the Revolutionary War, Middlesex County was a prime hop-growing area, and Wilmington led the county in hop cultivation.

The hop industry was so valuable in Massachusetts that careful records were kept as to the number of bags shipped, and the quality of the hops in those bags. Keeping the records, once it had been decided to do that, was easy, as all (with one exception) were shipped via the canal, and all that was needed was to consult the manifests of the Middlesex Canal barges to find the total number of bags shipped.

The Middlesex Canal, completed in 1803, is best-known for shipping cotton to the textile mills of Lowell. For the farmers of Wilmington, it provided excellent transportation for shipping hops to market. Canal records indicate that between 1806 and 1837, there were 78,806 bags of hops sent from Wilmington to Albany, New York.

The total value of the hops grown in that era was $2,169,430, in the dollar value of that era. A dollar was considered a good day's pay back then. Consider the price of the Louisiana Purchase, in which the U.S. bought more than 800,000 square miles for $15 million.

▲ Hop vines climb aggressively, going up 20 feet. The cones then hang down on the vines. These hops were on a trellis. When grown commercially, they are allowed to climb a rope, which is then lowered for harvest.

In 1817, the price was 34 cents a pound. Two years later, it had dropped to five cents.

The hops were shipped in very large bags. The canal boat would take them to Charlestown where they would be loaded on a coastal packet, a small ship. The shipping route would take them down the New England coast to New York City, and then up the Hudson River to Albany.

Water transportation was far superior to the roads of that era. The Middlesex Canal, the first of its kind in the United States, proved to be an economic engine for Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

But the War of 1812 threw a monkey wrench in the shipment of hops to Albany. The British blockaded the port of New York, which included the Hudson River. The farmers briefly turned to overland transportation.

Asa Sheldon, in his autobiography, Wilmington Farmer, tells of that time. Asa, then a young man, transported hops overland to Albany. He did this with a large cart, drawn by oxen. Quite probably other Wilmington men did the same thing, but there is no other record.

Sheldon relates of his fear of highwaymen on the return trip. He tells how he hid the money he had received in the ear of one of the oxen. Fortunately, he seems to have met no bandits.

William Blanchard, Jr., better known as Squire Blanchard, was the state inspector of hops, an important job. His duty was to insure that all hops exported from Wilmington were up to the standards set by the state.

For this he was paid $2,000 a year. That was the same salary as that given to the governor of Massachusetts, and those two gentlemen were the only ones in the state to receive such a munificent salary.

Behind the William Butters II house on Chestnut Street, adjacent to the Baldwin Apple, was a hop kiln. In the uplands near that house were many stone walls. Those stone walls mean that the fields were cleared to grow hops.

Up in North Wilmington more stone walls could be found in the uplands, though development has destroyed many of them. There were many walls between Andover and Ballardvale streets, and between High Street and the new Route 62, over Route 93. There are also stone walls in the land that was once a part of the Gowing Farm.

The Harnden family and the Gowing family both undoubtedly were hop farmers. On High Street, Henry Carter grew hops. He lived in the house now owned by the Espinola family.

In 1817, the price was 34 cents a pound. Two years later, it had dropped to five cents.

Probably the best story, relative to hops, relates to the Benjamin Buck house, between Wildwood and Woburn streets, now the oldest house in town. The Buck family had a lot of upland, where the Wildwood School is now located. They owned right down to the brook.

Benjamin Buck made considerable money by growing hops in Wilmington. Benjamin lived in the old Buck house, which now bears his name, although it was built by his forebears. It seems that he built a secret hiding place, which was only discovered in the 1960s. One of the chestnut beams on the first floor had a little addition to it, that could not be detected by a casual glance. In there, for possibly a half century, Benjamin Buck hid his money.

If the town needed $1,000, it would borrow it from Benjamin. This happened more than once, according to the town records.

When the church (Congregational) steeple blew down in 1876, it was Benjamin Buck who paid $5,000 for a new steeple. He just went to his hiding place, after being certain no one was watching, and got the money.

That was hop money.

The Buck house has a third floor, where the hops were dried, before they were sent to market. It seems to have been the only place where this was done indoors. Everywhere else, they were dried in outdoor kilns. Drying at cooler temperatures produces higher quality hops.

After the hops were dried, they were packed in large bags and dropped down a chute, beside one of the chimneys to ground level. Then the bags were taken to the canal for shipment to Charlestown, thence to Albany.

Hop cultivation stopped in 1837. That was the second year, it seems, of a hop blight, from which Wilmington hops never recovered. As areas in the west were being developed, new areas opened for hop cultivation.

The craft beer industry has brought about a resurgence in the cultivation of hops in some areas of the East, but Washington state has for a long time been the leading hop producer.

Sheriffs to expand medication assisted treatment in corrections

The Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association announced the establishment of a state-wide pilot program to provide medication assisted treatment (MAT) at five county correctional facilities in the Commonwealth: Middlesex, Franklin, Norfolk, Hampden and Hampshire. The goal of this cutting edge initiative, contained in the state's latest opioid legislation, is to foster innovation in corrections in an effort to increase public safety, improve public health, and save lives.

"This pilot program will expand upon the innovative and nationally recognized work of Massachusetts Sheriffs. We are proud and appreciative of the leadership of Senator Cindy Friedman and Representative Denise Garlick on this important step forward for corrections," said Massachusetts Sheriffs' Association President Peter J. Koutoujian. "This approach is balanced, thoughtful and will provide data to drive best practices for us and our colleagues not just locally, but nationally."

The pilot program will provide two points of engagement regarding MAT for individuals who have been clinically diagnosed with a substance use disorder.

First, for those with an MAT prescription that has been verified by a physician, Sheriffs' offices will continue their treatment regimen while incarcerated, unless determined otherwise by a qualified addiction specialist.

Second, medication assisted treatment options will be made available for sentenced inmates for whom such treatment is determined to be medically appropriate by a qualified addiction specialist 30 days prior to release. In addition, participants in the pilot program will return to their communities with a co-ordinated post-release health plan to ensure continuity of care for each individual.

The pilot program contains a robust data collection component that will allow public agencies on the front lines of this epidemic to better understand what's working and where we can improve with respect to this vulnerable population. It will also allow programs to establish best practices that can be emulated in the Commonwealth and across the country.

"High rates of substance use disorder have resulted in increased recidivism and more overdose deaths across our state. Expanding access to MAT in our jails and correctional facilities will help close the revolving door of people with substance use disorder going back and forth between emergency rooms, the streets, and jail. And, most importantly — it will save lives," said Sen. Friedman (D-Arlington), Senate chair of the Joint Committee on Mental Health, Substance Use and Recovery. "Thankfully, we have sheriffs like Peter Koutoujian who are determined to address this crisis by offering evidence-based medication and behavioral health counseling to people in houses of correction to assist in their recovery."

"The Massachusetts Legislature has been steadfast and unwavering in the face of the relentless disease of addiction. This disease is a reality that people face every single day, but we are pouring our best expertise and resources into this fight," said Rep. Garlick (D-Needham), House Chair of the Joint Committee on Mental Health, Substance Use and Recovery. "We are in this for the long haul and we are not backing down — we are in this battle together to save lives."

In addition to administering medication while individuals are incarcerated, the five sheriffs' offices will also provide treatment staff and post-release continuity of care to assist those in their recovery. In an effort to do so, key government stakeholders will work in collaboration with the Sheriffs' offices, including the Department of Public Health, Executive Office of Public Safety and Security and MassHealth.

The pilot, which was included as part of a larger legislative package addressing the Commonwealth's opioid crisis, will take effect in September 2019, pending the approval of the governor.

Letters to the editor

Former Miceli intern, Johnson motivated to become next State Representative in the 19th Middlesex District

Dear editor,
My name is Erika Johnson, a resident of Wilmington since I was four years old and candidate for State Representative in the 19th Middlesex District. When I interned for Representative Miceli in college, I had a firsthand look at how responsive and accessible he was and how hard he worked to help the families of Wilmington and Tewksbury.

As an intern, I worked closely with him on day-to-day responsibilities, but the constituent services aspect of the position was the one that stuck with me. Seeing how the weight of the office of State Representative can be used to make a difference in the lives of others, I knew then that one day I wanted to run for this office to be able to help others in a similar capacity that Representative Miceli did.

As I am talking to Wilmington and Tewksbury residents, everyone has a story of how Representative Miceli helped them, a family member, a friend etc. and how they worry that whoever is next in line for this office won't be as accessible or helpful. If elected, I will work tirelessly for all of my constituents, be accessible, approachable and advocate on your behalf.

Personally, I have always been motivated by making a difference, contributing to the greater good and helping others. Values that were instilled in me from a very young age and that continue to drive me to this day and make me the best choice in this race.

I chose to study Political Science in college because I saw politics as a way to use my voice and passion for helping others to advocate and make a real difference in our communities. I've had the opportunity to intern on Beacon Hill as well as Capitol Hill, seeing firsthand how our state and federal government operates.

"All Politics is Local" to quote Tip O'Neill and the state government is much more efficient in getting things done while being accessible to the people, two components I take very seriously.

I want to hear from the residents of Wilmington and Tewksbury when in office but also on the campaign trail, please do not hesitate to reach out to me at any time. My email is erikaforthe19th@gmail.com, I'm on Facebook (www.facebook.com/erikaforthe19th), Twitter (@erikaforthe19th) and Instagram (@erikaforthe19th); all accounts I will continue to maintain if I am elected.

I plan to hold office hours frequently in both towns where I, myself (not a staff member or intern), will be available to talk about anything on constituents' minds whether it be an issue, a policy stance or even just to chat. I will also be public with my office and personal phone number.

This position is unique in that it's not 9-5 Monday through Friday, as a public servant, I am always on the clock. If you see me around town, come say hi or tell me what's going on.

Transparency is also something I value, and I will borrow U.S. Representative Mike Capuano's biweekly newsletter idea where he summarizes every bill that was up for a vote, how he voted and why, that will be emailed, available on my website and I will also work with local media organizations (Wilmington Apple, Town Crier, Your Tewksbury Today, etc.) to be sure it is accessible for all. You, the residents of Wilmington and Tewksbury, are my boss and I am accountable to represent you.

Thank you,
Erika Johnson

Pro-life? Pro-2A? Don't vote for Mark Kratman

To the editor,
I was dismayed to read that State Representative candidate and current Selectman Mark Kratman sought and received the endorsement of State Senator and Congressional candidate Barbara L'Italien.

Senator L'Italien is pro-abortion, anti-Second Amendment, has voted for higher taxes and fees, and voted to give herself a pay raise. Senator L'Italien has also pushed to make Massachusetts a sanctuary state, and Mr. Kratman has said that he intends to follow in her footsteps if elected to the legislature.

This is troubling for Tewksbury and Wilmington since our police recently arrested an illegal immigrant from Lawrence who was dealing heroin. Mr. Kratman's political bedfellows are his choice, and have made my choice to vote for someone else very simple.

I urge my fellow residents who are pro-life, pro-Second Amendment, and who do not wish to make Massachusetts a sanctuary state to vote for someone besides Mark Kratman on Sept. 4.

Sincerely,
Laurie Guarino
Tewksbury

Affordable units in South Tewksbury

By PAIGE IMPINK
News Correspondent
paige@yourtowncrier.com

TEWKSBURY — Residents are all too familiar with the series of vacant lots along Route 38 which variously sport For Sale signs, have some activity, and then seemingly go dormant for a while.

One such lot, 2230 Main St., is about to transform from a weedy and overgrown patch which sometimes has political signs and trailers on it, to a residential and commercial space. CC & Sons of Wilmington received a Special Permit from the Planning Board in May of 2017 but is just now moving ahead with their building permit for a four-story mixed use structure.

The applicant, Carl Crupi of Wilmington, is represented by Richard Cuoco of Tewksbury. The building is slated to have 5,000 square feet of retail or office space facing Main Street and four units on the ground floor, in the back, with 30 units of residential living on the top floors, according to documents.

Tewksbury Planning Board documents dated June 8, 2018 state that the bottom units will consist of three two-bedroom units and one one-bedroom unit. The Site Plan Special Permit on file at Town Hall lists the upper unit details as 24 two-bedroom units and six one-bedroom units.

Originally the building was to have 10-11,000 square feet of office/retail space on the first floor but adjustments were made to the design as the applicant's consultant felt the space was too large for the Route 38 market.

The development at 2230 Main St. will have a minimum of 25 percent affordable units which will make all of the units count as part of Tewksbury's Subsidized Housing Inventory.

Per the minutes of the May 23, 2017 Local Housing Partnership meeting, "70 percent of the units can be dedicated to Tewksbury residents and the rest to whomever applies" in the housing lottery for the units, said Melissa Maniscalco, Executive Director of the Tewksbury Housing Authority.

The property sits in the Commercial and South Village Mixed Use Overlay District whose zoning supports the combination retail/office and residential structure.

The developer must comply with Massachusetts law and file the housing units as Local Action Units "in accordance with the most recent Guidelines published by the Department of Housing and Community Development," as part of the permit.

The applicant did ask for two waivers detailed in the SPSP including building a four-story and 44' high building and installing an eight foot high opaque fence in the rear yard. The plan details that mature trees on the site will be preserved where possible, with other spaces filled in with greenery, and a requirement to review the fence with the Planning Board and neighbors once installed, and add additional plantings if requested.

The property was formerly advertised as Sughrue Commons, and per Registry of Deeds documents was variously owned in whole or in part by Arnold Martel, Marc Ginsburg, Clara Sughrue, Carl Crupi, and CC & Sons over the years.

Strong support for Kratman for State Representative

Dear editor,
Please accept this letter with strong support for Mark Kratman for State Representative in the Democratic Primary election on Sept. 4, 2018.

I have been a resident of Tewksbury my entire life, raised a family here and have been a volunteer in the community for many years. As a volunteer, I helped form the Tewksbury Girls Softball League 30 years ago and was a founding member of the 9/11 Memorial Committee.

I currently serve as a director and treasurer of the Tewksbury Community Pantry, a member of the Tewksbury Rotary and a board member for the Strongwater Farm and Lowell General Hospital.

I met Mark during his first campaign for Selectman and have been impressed with his energy, expertise, and commitment to the town ever since. He is an unbelievably dedicated community servant and truly devotes his life to every aspect of the town. Simply put, he is the most visible Selectman Tewksbury has ever had.

Mark will bring this same dedication and energy to Wilmington as State Representative. He will put his tremendous network to work for our communities to push our towns further and raise the voices of our residents on Beacon Hill. Mark is an expert across many domains from infrastructure, economic development and senior housing to programs regarding substance abuse, public safety, veterans, and education. Please join me in supporting Mark in the primary election on Sept. 4, 2018 to secure a stronger future for our towns.

Sincerely,
Jim Carter
Tewksbury

Confidently supporting O'Connell for State Rep

To the editor,
To all of our Wilmington and Tewksbury neighbors, we have an awesome responsibility to elect a new State Representative, starting with the primaries on Sept. 4, 2018.

This is an opportunity to elect someone who will and should be an independent thinker, who cares for all the people she represents.

Judy O'Connell has a proven record of service and skills. As a teacher and a elected member of the School Committee in Wilmington, she has firsthand knowledge of the needs of students, teachers, curriculum and administrators, budgets and procedures. This will be very helpful knowledge as our next State Representative.

Judy also was an elected selectwoman for Wilmington, also served as its chairperson where she has shown her knowledge, patience, cooperation in listening to all with concerns, caring until a good judgment was reached for all the people and the town. These skills will be carried on once she is our next State Representative.

Judy showed her leadership skills on the Ventile Farm Recreation Park. As its chair woman, she led the committee that ultimately built a great park for all and it was under budget.

I am confidently endorsing Judy O'Connell as our next State Representative. I'm asking you to join me and my family in our support for Judy...

Please vote on Sept. 4. Or take out an absentee ballot.

Thank you
Ed Loud and family!!

McCoy only wants endorsement of voters

Dear editor
A few weeks back, I received a call from Lowell Sun reporter Kori Tuitt. She asked, "when are you going to have a campaign kickoff party like the other candidates?" I told her "I already did. My kickoff party was a month earlier campaigning and talking to people in front of Market Basket in Tewksbury."

I told Kori that I wasn't going to have a big campaign kickoff party because, unlike the other candidates, I am not soliciting campaign funds because I'm spending my own money for the State Representative's race just like I have for all of my 28 years as a selectman. I have never taken a single penny contribution because there are a lot of I.O.U.'s attached to financial contributions. When you take contributions from developers, realtors, and the power brokers, not to mention board members and politicians, there are typically expectations of campaign promises once the candidate is in office, usually not in the best interest of residents but rather those who stand to make money with certain votes.

The practice of paying for my own campaigns is one of the reasons I have been reelected over and over for 28 years — believe me, it's no easy task. There is a lot of resistance from the power behind the power because I call people and situations out. As a result, I've made enemies over the years, but luckily I've made far more friends.

For the record: I am a JFK Democrat; I vote in the interest of the working man and woman. I don't vote the party; I vote the man or the woman who will best represent me. While on social media, my opponents' cronies accuse me of being liberal but they are wrong and there is nothing further from the truth.

I am a common sense Democrat with conservative views, just like my parents before me. I've already gone on the record that I support capital punishment. I am against making Massachusetts a sanctuary state for undocumented immigrants. I am in favor of the Second Amendment with some common sense restrictions.

I also encourage everyone to look at the 10 minute interview I did on WCTV with Shaun Neville to see the discussion delving deeper into these very topics. Please go to my website at www.mccoyforstaterep.com to learn more about who I am and what my views are. I also encourage you to go to the Wilmington Apple online and read my answers that Robert Hayes asks of all the State Representative candidates.

In closing, unlike my opponents, I am not seeking any financial contributions or big political name endorsements. The only endorsement I want on election day is yours — the Tewksbury and Wilmington voters.

Thank you,
Michael V. McCoy,
Wilmington Selectman
Democratic candidate for State Representative of the 19th Middlesex District

OBITUARIES

Rocco V. 'Chuck' DePasquale Jr

Ran Rocco's restaurant in Wilmington

Rocco V. DePasquale Jr., fondly known as "Chuck" to his family and friends, passed away unexpectedly on July 25, 2018.

Chuck was born on Nov. 28, 1958, in Somerville, MA. He was the cherished son of the late Rocco and Rita (Lydon) DePasquale. Chuck was raised and educated in Wilmington, MA and was a member of a large and loving Italian family. Chuck attended Wilmington Public Schools and graduated with the Class of 1977.

Following high school, Chuck worked with his family at Rocco's Restaurant in Wilmington, a favorite local spot in town. Chuck, along with his brother Mattie, took over running the family business following the retirement of their father, Rocco. Chuck worked hard for many years.

He had a wonderful personality and was great with the customers. Chuck welcomed everyone with open arms and made you feel like a part of the family whenever you entered the restaurant. He always greeted everyone with a big smile or hug.

Chuck was also incredibly generous to the community. He and his brother Mattie sponsored many functions and dinners for local sports teams, community fundraisers and events. This did not go unnoticed as they were honored with the Wilmington "Good Guy" award in 2005, for their outstanding citizenship. "Good Guy" epitomized Chuck and was an award which he so richly deserved.

In 1994, Chuck married the "love of his life" Denise Foley. The couple had two beautiful daughters, Samantha and Lauren, and they were the light of his life. Chuck loved his family with all of his heart and there was not anything he would not do for them.

Chuck and Denise, along with their girls, enjoyed many wonderful times throughout the years. These memories will be forever cherished. Denise also has a big family, in which almost all 21 nieces and nephews worked for their beloved uncle at one point or another. In his spare time, Chuck enjoyed working on cars, flying planes, playing a scratch ticket or two, and most of all, spending time with his family and friends. Chuck also treasured the hours he spent researching his ancestry.

Following his recent retirement, Chuck found that he could not sit still and most recently became an Uber driver. Chuck loved this new hobby and, of course, his ability to put people at ease, along with his endearing personality, made him great at this career too.

Chuck will be forever remembered as a "great guy" as he continually went out of his way for others and his community. His warm smile, giving nature, and kind heart were always sincere and genuine. His love for his family, friends, and community were unwavering. Chuck was a big presence in Wilmington for many years and he will forever be loved and missed by all who knew him.

Chuck was the beloved husband of Denise (Foley) DePasquale of Wilmington, loving father of Samantha & Lauren DePasquale of Wilmington, son of the late Rocco and Rita (Lydon) DePasquale, dear brother of Mark DePasquale & his wife Christine of Salem, NH, Mary-Jo Cann, Regina LeBlanc & her husband Chris all of Wilmington and the late Matthew "Mattie" DePasquale survived by his wife Jane of Florida, son-in-law of James Foley & his wife Janet of North Andover and Judy Foley of Wilmington, brother-in-law of Stephen Foley & his wife Dorothy, Marcia Vozzella & her husband Stephen, Donald Foley & his wife Catherine, Diane Silva & her husband Ronald and Timothy Foley & his wife Jennifer.

Chuck is also survived by many nieces, nephews, friends and his "Rocco's Family."

Family and friends gathered for a Funeral Mass on Monday, July 30, at 10 a.m., at St. Dorothy's Church, Main St. (Rt 38), Wilmington. Visiting hours were held on Sunday, July 29, from 3-8 p.m. at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rt 62) Wilmington.

Memorial donations can be made in memory of Rocco V. DePasquale Jr. to the Wilmington High School Scholarship Fund, 161 Church Street, Wilmington MA 01887.

William C. Gibson

Served in Army Air Corps during WWII

William C. Gibson, age 92, of Tewksbury, formerly of Gloucester and Peabody, passed away on July 25, 2018.

Bill grew up in Gloucester, MA, and graduated from Gloucester High School. After high school he enlisted with the Army Air Corps where he was sent to Japan during WWII. As he was on the ship, Japan surrendered and he became a part of the peace-keeping force.

When he returned home to the United States he enrolled at Boston University and earned a Bachelor's Degree in Public Relations. Shortly after graduating from college Bill had the fortune to become reacquainted with a young lady, Barbara Mackay, who grew up down the street from him. They married and eventually settled in Peabody where they raised their two children, Donna and Christopher.

Bill was a technical writer and editor for most of his working career and worked for Electric Boat Co, in Groton, CT, Stone & Webster in Boston and later at Itek in Lexington.

Bill had several hobbies. One was tinkering on the piano that had belonged to his great uncle. Another of Bill's hobbies was photography. From taking photos at local sporting events, nature and of course his family and friends, Bill always had his camera ready.

After Bill retired he spent much of his time volunteering. Among his volunteer positions was tutoring ESL students at Peabody High School. He also spent many hundreds of hours on the restoration of the ship 'The Adventure' out of Gloucester. He took great pride in the work done on this ship to bring it back to its former glory.

He was also a great supporter of the Lynnfield Art Guild with his wife Barbara. After Barbara's passing, Bill continued volunteering with the guild as a Treasurer and occasionally displayed some of his photographs.

One of his greatest joys was becoming a grandpa to his beloved Elisabeth. Reading "T" was the Night before Christmas," teaching her to play Jingle Bells on his piano, taking photographs of and with her, and of course many trips to get ice-cream, there was nothing that made him smile more than spending time with his Elisabeth.

Bill was the beloved husband of the late Barbara (Mackay) Gibson. He was the loving father of Christopher Gibson & his wife Kerry of Tewksbury and the late Donna Astroff; cherished "grandpa" of Elisabeth Gibson of Tewksbury.

Bill was the son of the late Leonard and Harriett (Hickman) Gibson and the dear brother of the late Elizabeth Gibson. Bill is also survived by many relatives and friends.

Family and friends gathered at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rt. 62) Wilmington, for a funeral on Tuesday, July 31, at 9 a.m., followed by a funeral mass at St. Thomas of Villanova Church, 126 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, at 10 a.m. Interment with military honors followed in Calvary Cemetery, Gloucester. Visiting hours were held on Monday, July 30th, from 4-7 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations in William's name can be made to the American Cancer Society, P.O. Box 22478, Oklahoma City, OK 73123. William proudly served in the U.S. Army Air Corps.

VISIT ANIMAL ADVENTURES

Ed Laquidara has a passion for animals. An expert in crocodilian biology and PhD in Zoology, Laquidara runs Animal Adventures, a family zoo and rescue center focused on education and outreach in Bolton, Massachusetts. The center specializes in exotic animals. The animals are rescued or surrenders and the organization has special licensing for the species they are caring for.

Often animals have been orphaned, neglected or abused. There are no cats or dogs, for example. The center is open to the public for self-guided tours, private tours, community events and such as well as offering a summer camp. Animal Adventures also runs an internship program for seniors through Hudson High School, a way to expose students to a less traditional but valuable career opportunity.

On the day we visited, we saw animals who were well cared for and active. The pot-bellied pigs were wagging their tails when we came by and the guinea pigs were happy to scurry over to say hello. Even the alligators seemed interested, though they are well fed and surely would not be eyeing us for a snack..... would they?

Narrative signage identifies each animal and gives information about habitat, growth size, age, and other facts. It is interesting to note that some creatures are in cages that seem small, but are there due to anxiety issues. Based on the treatment the animal may have received prior to getting to the center, it was explained that accommodations are made for their housing and care.

Several animals are victims of abuse and were never in a natural environment and as such, would not even know how to interact with outdoor stimuli. For example, a lizard who might normally be fine out in a large area with a pond, refused to eat and was edgy at the center. Once staff moved it to a smaller area of containment, the animal took its meals and perked up quite a bit.

Some animals need a very warm and moist environment, such as the anaconda and boa constrictor in the Land of the Giants exhibit, while others, such as the giant tortoises, goats and pony are much happier in large, outdoor pens where they can roam in the grass and interact with visitors and each other. The center has several exhibit rooms and there is a new set of animal sights (and smells) around every corner.

Animal education sessions are offered three times per day in the open air tent and provide and up close encounter with different critters. On the day we visited, we met a ferret, a chinchilla, several lizards, and a large snake, and were able to pat them while they were under the control of the handler.

Presenters are quite knowledgeable and answer audience questions, including care information, habitat details, diet, and even the personal history of the animal. Some animals are available for adoption so contact the center if an exotic is something you may be interested in. The center is very careful to say that exotic animals can quickly become issues for people and that is why they end up being surrendered.

The center has Arctic fox, a serval, small monkeys, kangaroo, wallabies, a host of birds, porcupine, and even a scorpion. It is evident that there is a lot of attention paid to the animals. The center relies on donations and corporate generosity for its funding along with admission. Vegetables are donated from a local grocery and a steady stream of newspapers, cleaning supplies, bedding chips are dropped off by groups who are community supporters of the center.

Animal Adventures will be bringing their popular Animal Encounter to the Tewksbury Family Summer Concert Series again this year on Wednesday, Aug. 22, at 9:30 a.m. at Livingston Street Park, sponsored by the Office of Community Services. This show is free to the public and will be held rain or shine. In the event of rain, the show will be moved under the Rec Center tent next to the tennis courts. If you can't make the show, plan to visit Animal Adventures in Bolton sometime.

Fire Department saves the day for CARES!

CARES Program Coordinator (Wilmington Public Schools) Shari Parker wants to publicly thank the Wilmington Fire Department for "coming to the rescue" when their weekly swimming field-trip was canceled last minute. "I had approximately 170 disappointed CARES kids — but a quick call to WFD and they came down with a truck to cool the kids (and staff) off! It was a huge hit and very much appreciated by all. Definitely a benefit of living in Wilmington. Always a great partnership between the schools and town departments." (Courtesy photo)

Broussard takes the Gold at Summer Figure Skating Championships

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
Lake Placid, NY - When Aly Broussard took to the ice at the Famed Herb Brooks Arena at the Lake Placid Summer Figure Skating Championships, she did so as a defending champion, skating to center ice with the knowledge that she had what it takes to be a champion, having won the gold medal in this same arena just one year earlier.

But despite her championship history, this was a new experience for the 15-year old Wilmington native, as it was her first competition at the Intermediate level, after previously competing at the Juvenile level. A lesser skater, or a lesser person may have been overcome by pressure or nerves, but that was certainly not the case for Broussard.

Rather than being consumed by pressure, she was fueled by it, stepping up and skating a nearly flawless program to beat out competitors from all over the country to capture the gold medal in the Intermediate Ladies Test Track. Broussard showed poise beyond her years on her way to winning the gold medal, which came as no surprise to her long time coach Amy Guzelf, who has been coaching Broussard since she was four years old.

"You definitely get nervous. There is really no stopping that," said Guzelf, a former champion skater herself. "But there is a difference between being nervous and being scared. Nervous means you are alive, and ready, because you want to do well. Each person handles those nerves differently, and the way Aly deals with them is part of what makes her so successful."

As for Broussard herself, she definitely felt the nerves, but she knew she had to put them aside.

"I was definitely a bit nervous, because I was competing at a new level, and I knew a couple of the girls I was competing against, so I was stressed about competing against friends," Broussard said. "I just had to try and stay as calm as possible, and I knew that if I just did my best I would be proud of myself."

And once the program was done, and Broussard had clinched the gold medal, she was able to revel in her accomplishment of topping such a talented field, and doing so while suffering an injury which she didn't even realize she had sustained until she came off the ice.

"I was so excited to have won the gold medal because I fell on one of my jumps and cut myself on my blade and I was bleeding," Broussard said. "I didn't even realize it until I came off the ice, so I was really excited to win."

Guzelf was equally happy for her star student. While she has great confidence in Broussard's ability, it was still remarkable to see her take her skating to an even higher level against such great competition.

"It's really just incredible to win any medal at that level, or to even finish in the top five," Guzelf said. "I was very excited for her to defend her gold medal she won last year as a juvenile. I am so proud of her, not just on the ice, but off the ice. She is my most dedicated skater. She trains seven days a week for two to four hours per day."

Guzelf has obviously seen great improvement in Broussard since she first began working with her as just a four year old. But in recent years, the biggest improvement she has seen in Broussard is her belief in herself.

"Each year there is a huge improvement in her skating, and her confidence continues to grow as she improves," Guzelf said. "Back when she was just starting out, she was just skating the size of her little body, but now she takes up the whole ice with her confidence."

Broussard, who currently skates for the Northeast Skating Club out of Haverhill, first started working with Guzelf at the Wilmington Figure Skating Club, and still takes private lessons with her mentor. She credits Guzelf with helping make her the skater she is today.

"She has been such a great coach for me," Broussard said. "I sometimes will get frustrated and I will be hard on myself, but she has stuck with me through every competition and every practice and every test. She has just been great."

Broussard is also grateful for the support she receives at the Northeast Skating Club, where she began skating a couple of years ago.

"I really like it over there. Everyone is just so supportive and they all have the same love of skating that I have," Broussard said. "We all push each other to be better. We don't actually compete against each other, but we push each other to be the best we can be."

In addition to the great coaching support she has received, Broussard has also gotten tremendous family support, particularly from her mother Julie Broussard, who was among a large contingent from the Northeast Skating Club who made the trip to Lake Placid.

"We probably had about 20 people there at the event, because of other skaters from Northeast," Broussard said. "But having my mom there was great. The family support I get is fantastic. Figure skating is such an expensive and time consuming sport and I am lucky to get the family support that I do. It is such a great feeling."

Broussard will need all the support she can get in the coming months as she prepares for the New England Regional Figure Skating Championships, which will be held at the Skating Club of Boston from October 11-

14. Prior to that, she will be competing in the 38th Annual Cranberry Classic at the Yarmouth Ice Club on August 10.

In the New England Regionals, Broussard will not only be facing an even higher level of competition, but she will also be competing with a new scoring system, as judges will be using the International Judging System (IJS) as opposed to the 6.0 Scoring System she has become accustomed to. But Broussard is looking forward to the new process.

"At Lake Placid, we only had to do three jumps and only one of them was a double. At Regionals, we are required to do five or six jumps and they are all doubles," Broussard said. "I think it will definitely be a challenge learning the new scoring system and competing against such great competition, but I am excited to see how it goes."

O'Connell sisters enjoy their own memorable weeks

Callie one of four riders from the country to participate in Dressage Event in Germany

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com
A I C H E N,
GERMANY/WILMINGTON
- Ever since she was five years old, Callie O'Connell fell in love with horses. When she was about eight years old, she started training in dressage, and since then that, along with her academics, have been basically her entire life.

The passion, the excitement, her work ethic and her incredible commitment to the sport, is unwavering. Perhaps, those are just a few of the reasons why she was chosen as one of four riders in the United States to attend the 2018 TDF (The Dressage Foundation) International Dream Program, which was held recently in Aachen, Germany.

The program sends riders from the United States to Europe for an intensive dressage experience, which includes watching and meeting the world's best riders who put on a show and competition before 150,000 people, while the American riders also get to sit and chat with judges, discussing training with the riders and judges.

"I've known about the program foundation for many years now, and when you apply, you have to be a certain age, you have to be at the fourth level, you have to submit a video, four letters of recommendation, you have to write an essay, you have to submit your scores and it's a whole big process that you have to go through," O'Connell explained.

She guessed that perhaps several hundred people apply for this program each year with just four chosen. She found out in May that she was among the four, joining Hannah Irons of Maryland, Amanda Perkowski of New Jersey and Emma Smith of Minnesota. The four flew out of their respective states on July 16th and headed to Europe.

"It was seven days, including the travel," she said. "Being in Germany was absolutely incredible. It was my first time there and it was more than I ever could have imagined. I'll admit though it was tough for me to leave. It was the first time in my life that I took a week off from the Barn (in Concord) and being away from my Horse (Furst Story). I didn't want to leave my Horse or the Barn and I was very nervous about it. But once I got there, I just realized how awesome this was and it was just such an incredible feeling."

"When we were leaving the airport, there were signs everywhere for the show, just everywhere. Everyone knows about the show - they have it on TV and it's just a huge thing over there. Everyone knows so much about riding. Everything about it was just incredible - the atmosphere was just amazing."

She added that the entire experience is something she will remember for the rest of her life.

"I met the entire USA team and it was just incredible," she said. "They are all such amazing hard working individuals, but are such a strong supportive team. Truly amazing to see. The vibe that team gave was unlike anything I have ever felt in this sport. They were the nicest group of people. Meeting my role models in this sport, and seeing how real they are and hearing their stories and how relatable some things were, also was inspiring and truly life changing."

Soon to be 20-years-old, O'Connell was enrolled at Mount Ida College the last two years and has transferred to MassArt College in Boston starting with classes this fall. Before college, she attended and graduated from Wilmington High School, which included being one of the cross-country team's most elite runners in program history, excelling in the sport mostly while attending junior high, before giving up the sport to put all of her attention into dressage.

O'Connell has been competing since she was eight, earning a bronze medal when she was 14, while she was the 2012 NEDA Fall Champion in Region 8 Dressage Seat Equation for ages 14-18, she competed for Region 8 at NAJYRC in 2014 on the Junior Team, and qualified for the Region 8

North American Young Riders Championship Team held in New York last year. She trains with Jane Karol at Bear Spot Farm in Concord, and has been a working-student since 2015.

"I started riding when I was five years old at a local barn and around eight years old, I started focusing on the competition, and I started to seriously compete when I was 11 and 12 years old. I just fell in love with dressage ever since that first day. I can't go a day without riding, even when my life has become busier with college," said O'Connell.

Her commitment to the sport, her horse and to the barn is second to none.

"During the summer, I'm at the barn from 8 am to usually 6 pm," she said, and when I'm at school, I'll find time to go before and after classes and that's while I'm still getting Straight-A (grades). It's a lot. I do a lot at the barn. There's some days I ride two horses, and there's some days I ride seven horses. I've been a working student for four years now, so there's always something to do. I help out anyway I can, including doing a lot of stuff for the website. I owe so much to Jane Karol for that - she deserves so much credit."

Karol is the one who has helped O'Connell in terms of training horses and the competition. In 2016, Callie began a partnership with her first horse, Furst Story, who is owned by Jennifer Silva.

"Jennifer is the one who gave me my first opportunity. She was the one who brought me in to train First Story and she has taught me more than I could have ever imagined. She's like a second mom to me."

First Story arrived from Germany as a four-year-old and is now seven. O'Connell has trained him and the two have worked their way up the ranks, winning the First Level Regional Championship and currently working their way to compete at the Third/Fourth Level.

"It's so cool to be able to (train Furst Story)," she said. "You learn about patience. This relationship is like no other one that I've had with any other horse in my entire life. You just get such a bond. He's just incredible. He's a 17-3 hand horse. He's a big-guy."

She was asked about training, how much time and work goes into it.

"It really depends on the horse and your relationship," she said. "I'm lucky because Furst Story has one of the best personalities you'll ever find. He is hard-working, he is a super athletic horse and it's just all about finding the right match. The hardest part (of dressage) is you have to keep believing in yourself. The sport is such a roller-coaster ride, with so many ups and downs. You get to work with an animal who has a brain, and everyday is different. There's times when he isn't feeling so well and you have to learn to be patient, to listen to the horse and just to have that partnership, that's the whole part because you and the horse may have different styles but it's all about being one."

"It takes a lot of commitment to be in and out of the saddle. Sometimes it looks like the rider isn't doing anything, but that's because of the partnership you have."

Since she has returned from Germany, O'Connell is back into her normal routine. She logs lots of hours at the Barn with Furst Story and other horses, and will enjoy another five weeks or so before college classes begin. She was asked how far she wants to go with the sport.

"As far as I can go," she said without hesitating. "My dream would be to make the United States team (and compete in the Olympics) and I know that I'm never going to give up that dream. This is an expensive sport, so getting help is a big, big part of it. I've been so fortunate and lucky to have had the experiences I have had, to work and meet so many fantastic people along this journey. I just want to go as far as I can. I know it's a long journey."

O'Connell added that she is studying Fashion Design and would like to combine fashion with the equestrian world in some way.

"I'm so devoted to this sport," she said. "I never had a normal teenage life. My social life is limited. I do this because I love it. There's days when my family goes on trips and I can't go, or there's holidays I miss because of it. I try to balance everything as best as I can, but I do it because I want to be the best I possibly can at this. I just love it that much."

Wilmington resident Callie O'Connell has trained and competed with Furst Story for three years now. (courtesy photo).

And Tess helps Breakers reach National Championship game

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

jamiepote@hotmail.com

A U R O R A ,
COLORADO/WILMINGTON
As a freshman and a sophomore at Wilmington High School, Tess O'Connell was a key player for the girls' soccer team, helping the Wildcats capture the program's sixth and seventh (co-title with Stoneham) Middlesex League Freedom Division Championship titles as well as a combined 24-7-7 record, including two state tournament appearances.

Over those two years, O'Connell gained a lot of varsity experience. She added a few inches to her frame, became physically stronger and that helped her become a better all-around player.

Well this past summer, she and her New England Futbol Club Breakers Team Coach Dushawne "Doc" Simpson, believes she has taken her game to a completely different level.

O'Connell served as the captain of the Breakers Northshore Elite G 16-Under team, which not only captured the Massachusetts State Cup title championship for the second straight year, but advanced to play at the National Tournament held from July 20-24 at the Aurora Sports Park in Aurora, Colorado. The Breakers won their first three games in the "Super Group Competition" bracket, before advancing to the championship game and losing to Vision Academy, 2-1, in a game that was determined by penalty kicks.

"This is my second year with the team and it's honestly the best decision I made," she said. "We are such a hardworking team, we are so determined and it's the most talented team I have ever played on. We train very hard, we have a lot of heart and our coach excels at coaching girls. He finds different ways to make us successful."

Simpson is not only the coach of the Breakers' Under 16-team, but he is the assistant coach of the Boston Breakers Women's Professional team, as well as the head coach of the Pingree High School Varsity Girls' Varsity team. Pingree School is a coeducational, independent day school located in Hamilton, Mass and in athletics, teams compete in the Eastern Independent League. The soccer program, under Simpson, captured New England championship titles in 2013 and '14.

This fall, O'Connell will continue to play under Simpson, as she is transferring to Pingree. She is the second soccer player from WHS to transfer to another school for this fall season, joining Diego Garcia, who left the boys' program for Buckingham Browne & Nichols.

"Tess is a very cerebral and skillful player," said Simpson. "Her ability to read the game and make proper decisions is what sets her apart. Tess is very consistent so she always plays well. Colorado was no exception as she controlled the midfield and scored a great goal in our first match. She was also able to put away her penalty kick in the championship game."

The Breakers opened the tournament with a convincing 4-0 win over Sting, TCL Composite, a team out of Texas.

"We came out very strong and were really pressuring them," said O'Connell. "We scored two goals in each half. We all played well in that game. It was a real good team win for us."

O'Connell, who played center-midfield, scored the team's fourth and final goal. After that win, the Breakers defeated the Cleveland Cobras, 2-1.

"We were down 1-0 almost the entire game," she said. "Their goal came on a lucky shot from really far out and it barely went in. Then in the last six minutes of the game, we scored two goals. We just showed a lot of heart."

With the 2-0 mark, the Breakers then went on to play Vision Academy out of California.

"We expected to play them and we knew that they were very good," she said. "It was scoreless until real late in the game when we scored in the final few minutes of the game."

That 1-0 win came on Sunday, and after a day off, the two teams met again for the championship game. This time after regulation, the game was tied 1-1 and was settled in the penalty kick round, with Vision Academy holding the 4-3 advantage. O'Connell scored the Breakers' first PK, going to the low right hand corner.

"I just feel so lucky and fortunate to be a part of this team and to get this experience," she said. "To get the experience to play in the Nationals is incredible. We won the state title two years in a row, and we advanced to the championship game of the Nationals. We fell a short of our goal of winning it, but I couldn't be any prouder of the entire team."

O'Connell was asked about the level of play, comparing it to the high school level.

"It's a lot harder and the girls are really good and just so focused," she answered. "A lot of them will play in college at a high level of competition."

She hopes she is among those players, who after her two years at Pingree, will continue to play the game of soccer at the collegiate level.

"I'm very fortunate to be able to attend and play at Pingree," she said. "I love playing for Coach Simpson. He really knows how to get girls to play well and to play together. He really helps us both on and off the field. On the field, he really helps us with our overall play, and just all aspects of the game, both offensively and defensively."

O'Connell said that she has already looking at a handful of colleges, and would just like to find the right fit.

"My decision will come on what's best for me both academically and athletically," she said. "I'm looking at all kinds of different schools (Divisions 1, 2 and 3). I'd like to go into the medical field, maybe nursing, I'm not sure yet, so I'd like to find the right school for that, and for soccer."

Until then, she will play at both Pingree and for the Breakers for two more years, all the while continuing to excel in the game she loves.

"Tess is currently being sought after by several schools at the Division-1 level because they recognize her steady play," said Simpson.

Handful of locals compete in HNIB Summer Tourney

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Shorts Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
Several local hockey players have competed in Hockey Night in Boston (HNIB) tournaments over the past several weeks, as some of the best boys and girls players have competed against the best players in New England and beyond.

Hockey Night in Boston and their summer youth hockey tournaments are now in their 44th year and are considered by many college recruiters as one of the most important scouting criterion for evaluating top underclassmen in the USA. Over 250 HNIB graduates are now college stars and over 50 former HNIB players went on to wear NHL/AHL jerseys.

This past week was the crown jewel of the Hockey Night in Boston season, as several local players competed in the 44th Annual Boys Major Showcase, which was held at the Haverhill Valley Forum from last Wednesday through Sunday.

Five local players competed in the Boys Major Showcase, which features top players from as far away as New York, New Jersey and Florida.

Forward Brendan Sjostedt of Tewksbury led the way among local players. The rising senior at the Tilton school played for Team Middlesex, helping to lead his team to the Prior Division Championship during pool play, with Middlesex going 4-0-1, before advancing all the way to the playoff finals where they put up a great battle before losing to Mass West by a score of 2-1 in double overtime.

Middlesex actually began their great run to the finals with a 3-2 win over Mass. West in the opening game of pool play last Wednesday. They followed that up with a win and a tie on Thursday, beating Suburban 5-2 and tying North Shore 2-2. On Friday Middlesex picked up a pair of wins, beating Southern New England 2-0 and the Sophomore All-Stars 2-1.

On Saturday, Middlesex defeated Greater Boston by a score 2-1 in a shootout in the quarterfinals, before overcoming a 2-0 deficit to beat Northern New England 4-2 in the semifinals to earn a rematch with Mass. West in the finals.

The Evolution Elite 2021 Girls' Basketball team won the Adidas Gauntlet 15U Summer 2018 Championship, held in Atlanta GA at the Lakepoint Sports Complex on July 29. Wilmington residents Andrea Turner (#22) and Kylie DuCharme (#6) among the members of the team. The team won all five of its games over, Team St. Louis, EBO, Wisconsin Flight, Minnesota Fury and the OSA Crusaders in the championship. Turner (far left) will be a freshman at Malden Catholic and DuCharme (fifth from left) will be entering her sophomore year at WHS. Other members of the team include: Ava Connolly of Arlington, Liz Gonzalez of Peabody, Julia Howse of North Reading, Marina Callahan of Burlington, Kyra Christofori of Belmont, Tatum Shaw of Andover and Olivia Found of Wakefield. The team is coached by Randy Bennett. (courtesy photo).

Unfortunately for Sjostedt and Middlesex, Mass. West came out on top this time by a score of 2-1, with a goal 2:27 into double overtime.

Other local players who played in the tournament included juniors Campbell Pierce and Tony Barbat, both of whom played for Team Central, while Central Catholic junior Ryan Driscoll of Tewksbury played for East Coast and Austin Prep freshman Aidan Elkins of Wilmington played for the Sophomore All-Stars.

Wilmington's LTA Baseball team drops first playoff game

By DAN ZIMMERMAN
Sports Correspondent

sports@yourtowncrier.com
The LTA Wilmington baseball team closed out the month of July and opened the League playoffs on Tuesday night with a discouraging 2-0 upset loss to North Andover Red.

No. 6 seed North Andover scored one run in the first inning and added insurance in the third on the way to a win over the Wildcats to offset a pair of earlier losses. Wilmington averaged nearly seven runs per game over the summer but could not produce baserunners in this meeting with North Andover and as a result, suffered their first shutout.

"North Andover came out tonight with a lot of energy," said Wilmington shortstop Connor Zaya. "Recently, we seem a little lazy at the start of games and wait for the later innings to score. They got a run early and that hurt. The last time we played them, we scored fourteen runs."

No. 3 Wilmington must now travel to face No. 2 Ayer in a must-win situation on Wednesday night (results in after press time).

The defeat was a tough pill to swallow, especially considering that Wilmington had peaked at the optimal time, claiming three essential wins down the stretch, including a nailbiter over Malden, 2-1, in their finale last Friday. The Wildcats wrapped up the regular season with an enviable 12-5 record and entered the playoffs third place of eight clubs in the Lou Tompkins All-Star Baseball Senior Division.

"We were on quite a roll heading into these playoffs," said Coach Rick Hill, who led his team in wins over Acton and North Andover Red prior to wrapping up with Malden.

Traveling to Acton a week ago, Wilmington earned retribution for an 8-5 loss handed down earlier this summer. It was no easy task as James Hill, the Wildcats scheduled starter, was forced to watch the game from the dugout after sustaining a hamstring injury. With his ace sidelined, Coach Hill turned to Ethan Smith, who had yet to start a game this season. Not only did Smith go the distance, he pitched out of a jam in the seventh inning and delivered a pair of clutch RBIs to lead his team to a 3-0 blanking over Acton.

"This was a hard-fought win for Wilmington," said Coach Hill. "Credit goes to Dan Stein, Alex Baptiste, Dan Cronin, Justin Kannally for their offense, and of course, Ethan Smith for a gutsy pitching performance and timely hitting."

While the bats represented the driving force behind Wilmington's success this summer, producing 115 runs, it was the pitching that seldom failed to put the club in a position to win games.

A preview to the playoffs, Wilmington faced North Andover Red for the second time in a week down the stretch. Wilmington sent Darin MacEacheron to the mound. There was a lot at stake at the time, including a chance to move closer to a 3rd-place finish in the League. But in addition, the seeding was aligning in such a way that Wilmington would likely face North Andover Red in an early playoff round. The thought was that two regular season wins could carry a lot of weight motivationally. Despite the pressure, MacEacheron had great stuff and led the Wildcats to a 3-1 win.

"Darin pitched one of the finest games of the season in my opinion," said Coach Hill. "He pitched a complete game, giving up just one run on five hits, striking out four, and walking a pair and Wilmington was able to come out on top."

Scoreless through three frames, North Andover climbed into a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Anthony Giovenelli earned a one-out walk, advanced to second on an error, third on a fly ball out, and scored on a wild pitch.

Wilmington was held at bay until the sixth inning when MacEacheron took matters in his own hands, working North Andover hurler Devin McElhinney for a leadoff walk. Kannally followed with a basehit. Jon Perella's ground ball out moved both baserunners into scoring position and soon, the bases were loaded as Connor Zaya walked.

North Andover's coaching staff was likely second-guessing the decision, at this juncture, to sit McElhinney in favor of Trevor Ham. The reliever came on and issued back-to-back walks to Brian Moran and Zach Marcus, forcing across MacEacheron to tie it and Kannally with the go-ahead run. As if a pair of walks wasn't enough, Ham balked with the bases still full, forcing in Zaya for a Wilmington insurance run.

In the regular season finale, Wilmington hosted Malden last Friday night. When these teams met in early July, the Wildcats managed to hold off the defending champion, 9-8. In the second go-round, Malden jumped out to a quick 1-0 lead. It could have been more but Wilmington starter Max Hubbard was able to pitch out of a bases-loaded jam.

It wasn't long before the Wildcats manufactured a game-tying run. In the second inning, Cronin singled and later, advanced to second on a wild pitch. Ted Miele reached, putting runners on the corners with one out. Malden tried to extinguish the threat when MacEacheron hit a double play ball at the second baseman but he beat the throw, allowing Cronin to score easily.

Tied at 1-1, the game slowed to a crawl. Hubbard and Luis Concepcion settled into a classic pitcher's duel that endured into the seventh inning.

"The pitchers were matching each other pitch for pitch, scoreless inning after scoreless inning," said Coach Hill. "With darkness setting in, the umpires informed both teams that, regardless of the score, the seventh would be the final inning."

Malden mounted a threat in their half of the inning, putting a man on third. But with two outs already gone, a fly ball to right fielder Miele prolonged the deadlock.

With a potential 3rd-place League finish in the offing, Wilmington pieced together a dramatic game-winning run as daylight diminished. Jon Perella started them, reaching on a dropped third strike. Perella was soon forced at second, however, when pinch-hitter Zach Marcus tried a sacrifice bunt but dropped the ball in range of Concepcion, who tossed it over to second. Concepcion then yielded back-to-back walks to Alex Baptiste and Jared Spinney to load the bases.

Connor Zaya waited in the on-deck circle while Malden reliever Mike Ward loosened. Starter Concepcion, meanwhile, was sent to handle left field duties. It was fitting, perhaps, that Zaya would send a fly ball toward Concepcion. As he collected the ball and reared back to make a throw to the plate, Marcus tagged and took off, safely crossing with the walk-off winner. The Wilmington players emptied the dugout, mobbing hero Zaya in celebration of the team's 12-5 finish.

MacEacheron got the start against North Andover Red in the first round of the playoffs, which was contested at Scanlon Field. Leadoff man Scott Leslie drilled a double to deep left and soon put his club on top, advancing to third on a wild pitch, and scoring on a sacrifice fly to take a 1-0 lead over their host.

The first inning didn't lack for bizarre plays. A North Andover hitter was late on a fastball, sending a long foul to the distant running track behind the high school. Despite the yells of "heads-up" from spectators, the ball hit a jogger squarely between the shoulder blades. He was unhurt, just stunned.

Later, MacEacheron ended the inning with a barehanded snag of a line drive back to the mound. When his teammates were certain he hadn't injured his throwing hand, there was cause for congratulations on the bench.

Trailing 1-0, Wilmington put a pair of baserunners in scoring position in the second inning but couldn't finish the job. Dan Stein led off with an infield hit and Ethan Smith added a one-out double, the Wildcats only extra basehit of the game. But North Andover starter CJ Good was true to his name, fanning Zach Marcus and getting Will Mills to chop a ground ball out to end the brief threat.

North Andover made it 2-0 in the third, which proved to be enough. MacEacheron pitched well enough to win, striking out the side in the sixth and leaving the bases loaded in the seventh. Unfortunately, the run support just wasn't there.

"Darin pitched an awesome game tonight and he deserved a better fate," said Coach Hill. "The last three or four games he's pitched, he has been very consistent and has kept the opposition off balance. We were missing a couple big bats in our lineup so when we come back tomorrow, we need to come ready to play."
